Roger Focus

Because everybody deserves the chance to focus
The Roger Focus is a discreet behind the ear receiver designed to help individuals hear in noise and at a distance. The Roger Focus receiver is used alongside a wireless Roger microphone to create a solution that brings the speaker's words directly into your ears. This approach is proven to reduce distracting background noise and emphasize target speech.

According to the Canadian Guidelines on Auditory Processing Disorder in Children and Adults: Assessment and Intervention, adults can often experience difficulties processing auditory information from the following conditions:

- Aging
- Cerebrovascular disorders or stroke
- Traumatic brain injury
- Cognition
- Epilepsy
- Demyelination disorders like MS
- Neurodegenerative disorders like Alzheimer
- Genetics
- Peripheral hearing loss
- Brain tumors

Following careful medical and audiological (hearing) assessment a trial of the Roger Focus may be recommended.

Roger Focus is a discreet and highly comfortable Roger receiver. It features a SlimTube, a volume control, and uses a small 312 battery. The perfect companion for active adults, it is also resistant to water, sweat and dust.
